Maya Schreiber currently serves as a Research & Policy Analyst at the Anita Zucker Center for Excellence in Early Childhood Studies. Alongside Dr. Herman Knopf, Maya supports state and local policymakers in using administrative data to improve early learning government interventions. Notably, she provides ongoing policy-related research and analyses to support partners in improving access to and impact of various government support programs.

Maya holds an M.A. in Political Science and Policy and a B.A. in Political Science from the University of Florida. Her policy and research interests include childcare access, early learning workforce pay and quality, and government program evaluation and enhancement. She is thrilled to be a part of such a dynamic, impactful team!
